

Thomas is in high school and just got accepted by his dream college. Now he is going through the acceptance process and he is on the roommate selection section, and is stressing about who to choose.

He is using the schools roommate selection process and is frustrated about how bad the user interface is.

Thomas tries to go through facebook and post that he is looking for a roommate for the college he is attending.

Thomas had no luck on facebook, the only responses he had were from peoples mom's and he felt like he couldn't get a a good idea on who he was rooming with.

Thomas was fed up and angrily thought to himself that there had to be a better way of choosing a roommate. So he looked up, "Roommate Finder" on google.

Thomas found the Roommate Finder app on google and decided to download the app. Thomas really enjoyed the user interface and the type of personality questions it asked on the app;

Thomas matched with a few people and narrowed it down to one person through the chat feature

Thomas and the roommate he met go on to become really good friends, and they are even better roommates.
